

INTRODUCING RENEE MILL

CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGIST, CORPORATE SPEAKER, CORPORATE COACH, MEDIA COMMENTATOR, BLOGGER, & AUTHOR.

Since 1974, Renee has empowered individuals emotionally, in their relationships and at work. She has worked with individuals and groups in her private practice and in organisations.

Renee utilises evidence-based psychological solutions in her work. She has made this vital information accessible to all through her face to face work, courses, public speaking, books, e-books, audios and DVD's.

Renee's success derives from five contributing resources:

- Renee is highly educated and skilled being both an occupational therapist and clinical psychologist.
- She has had over 30 years of clinical experience.
- Renee continues to keep up with the latest research.
- She belongs to the APS and subscribes to their code of ethics.
- As a wife, step-mother, mother, and grandmother, who works in her own business, she has real life perspectives on most of life's issues.

Renée continues to work full-time in her own private practice in Sydney to deliver effective counseling and coaching to individuals, families and businesses.

Renée is often called upon to comment in the media. She has appeared on television (Today Show, Sunrise, The Morning Show, Today Tonight, The Seven PM Project) and radio (both ABC and commercial stations) and has frequently been quoted in various metropolitan newspapers (Sydney Morning Herald, Herald Sun). She has had articles published in the business magazine "In the Black" and as well as various parenting publications.

What makes Renee unique is her wisdom, her people skills plus her entrepreneurial ability. She has developed effective courses that are practical and change people's lives for the better. When Renee works with an individual or a group, positive gains are felt very quickly. These gains are taught in a way that they become permanent.
